What's Up in Middle School?

We hope our students embrace many of the social-emotional skills and strategies they've learned this past year. Developing these kinds of skills now helps build a strong foundation for the rest of their lives, so they can feel better about themselves and find success at school, and in life.

This month, our 8th grade students received a classroom lesson from their school counselors. This lesson was all about High School preparedness! The goal of this lesson was to identify the challenges that students may have during high school transition as well as identify the people they can go to for help and support with these challenges.

Below are some of the topics we covered during this lesson:

- Things we're looking forward to about starting high school
- Things that make us nervous about starting high school
- Ways to overcome things we're nervous about
- Who can you go to for help with a problem at high school?
